*Dolley Madison, First Lady of Virginia and then of the United States (1812-20), was known for the glamorous receptions she held at the White House each week, drawing guests from all corridors of power in DC. Issues that often were stalled in the Senate or the House were resolved. These gatherings were so popular and so crowded that they came to be called "Dolley Squeezes". Come hear the latest on Terry's race, his vision for Virginia, and show him that we too can make a "Dolley Squeeze" happen!
